

'round town

with Betty Allen...

The new post office has made a big change in the stream of traffic. There's a steady flow of pedestrians past the office and it certainly seems more interesting. I'm constantly amazed however at the people who come in and say, "Where's this new post office?" ... the big excitement was the change-over from boxes opened by keys to the combination type. The advice floating about the lobby is really amazing and some proud citizens endowed with a mechanical ability and the strange, mysterious power to understand combination locks, stood about for hours, happily opening other people's boxes for them.

I, for one, certainly like the new arrangement. It does away with those dreadful times you forget your key and wonder if you should dare dream up a new excuse to get the poor hard-working postal employees to hand you your mail.

One of the nicest touches on the opening day was a large bouquet of red roses on the postmaster's desk. They were for Mr. Grim from Mrs. Grim.

Seriously, the opening of the post office can be looked upon as the first link in the chain to bring together the old business section of the town and the new. Undoubtedly there will soon be changes on Campbell Ave., making the two sections one.

Some chance remarks from subscribers set me to thinking about news items. When you have some news don't hesitate to give the paper a ring. It may not seem interesting to you but everyone else will be interested in your trips, your guests and your parties.

Another remark coming, this time, from an advertiser made me realize that there is another point which needs clearing up. This advertiser, a local business man, commented on the fact that the paper was carrying an advertisement of a competing business man in a nearby city. He did not have any objections but was merely interested. What he did not know was that the out-of-Campbell business man pays a higher rate of advertising than he does.

This difference in rates is made for the protection of local merchants. In other words, it is their market primarily and any outside merchants who wish to avail themselves of the Campbell area market must pay a higher rate for the privilege.

Should Campbell be incorporated the merchants would have the same protection from outsiders who now do business here without paying any premium for the opportunity. Any plumbing, construction work, peddling, etc., can now be done in direct competition to the local merchants without purchasing a license for the privilege.

There seems to be great response to the community dance, judging by the large number of tickets already sold. And why not—you can have fun and support a worthy cause at the same time! Buy a ticket, even if you don't dance.

On the cover of the graduation program is a poem by one of the graduates, Barbara Shockley, entitled "A World In Tune."

A WORLD IN TUNE
A world in tune is a wonderful thing.

Like a huge orchestra with blended strings.

The tone is deep, the melody fine.

Impressions beautiful with harmonious line.

Without the violins, flute and cello

It wouldn't be complete or nearly so mellow.

With people it works, the very same way,

Without us all it couldn't be beautiful, bright or gay.

We should work together for

A better world in which to live,

But one person can't do it alone—

We all must give.

—Barbara Shockley.

For its class flower the group selected the gardenia and its colors are blue and white.

Slot Machine Seized Here

Johnnie's Place, beer tavern on Campbell Ave., and Court's Cabins on the San Jose-Los Gatos Road were among the establishments raided by Sheriff Howard F. Hornbuckle's deputies in Monday's seizure of slot machines.

Other places which yielded the illegal machines were the Rendezvous Cafe, 1505 S. First St.; Redo Cafe, Rt. 4, Box 395, Monterey Road; Colonial Club, Rt. 4, Box 407, Monterey Road; Happy Landing Cafe, Bayshore Highway at Moffett Field; and the York Club, Mountain View Blvd., Mountain View.

Two of the devices were confiscated at the Colonial club, Hornbuckle said. The machines will be destroyed if their owners do not call for them within 30 days. If they do call, they face prosecution.

Over Million Dollars Worth Of Homes Go Up

More than $1,000,000 worth of permits have been issued for the unincorporated areas of the County for one-family dwellings in the past month.

The 215 one-family dwelling valuations totaled $1,293,700, while alteration permits for 43 similar dwellings were valued at $51,000 and 18 permits for private garages and utility buildings came to $10,250.

Commercial construction permits included one building valued at $20,000, one feed mill and one plumbing shop valued at $15,000 each, a service station at $13,000, a hatchery at $10,000 and 15 miscellaneous buildings of $38,150 valuation.

Legion Celebrates Third Birthday

Campbell Post No. 596 American Legion celebrated its third birthday May 28 with a pot-luck dinner and joint meeting with the auxiliary.

One hundred and seventy-five veterans and their families attended the affair. Visitors from neighboring posts were introduced. Distinguished guest was Mrs. McKinney, president of the 13th district.

The post auxiliary sponsored the pot-luck with Mrs. Fairchild acting as chairman.

Mrs. Smith, auxiliary president and Capt. Rogers of the Sons of the Legion, each presented the post a birthday cake.

A short joint business meeting was held at which time several awards were made to local high school students who had won Legion Recognition in Legion sponsored activities. Two boys who will represent the post and auxiliary at Boys' State were present with their families. The boys are John Giacomazzi and Vic Corsiglia.

Winning awards for the Legion Auxiliary sponsored Americanism essay contest were Ray Russo, Charles Cutting and Shirley Goodell.

Commander Carter announced that nomination and election of officers for the coming year will be the business of the next regular meeting.

Ed Levin, who was assistant to Father Hubbard on his Alaska explorations, showed colored film and gave a very interesting talk on Alaska. Vice-Commander James Parr was chairman of the entertainment committee.

Baccalaureate Services Set For Sunday

Baccalaureate services for the graduating class of Campbell Union High school have been arranged for Sunday, June 8, in the high school auditorium. The program will begin at 5 p.m.

Under the direction of Frank Triena, the school orchestra will begin the services with Handel's processional, "Largo." Father J. Ryan will give the invocation followed by the Lord's Prayer.

Campaign Workers Have First Dinner

With Campbell campaigners invited to attend, the first official report dinner in the campaign for expansion of Community Service Hospital (formerly San Jose Hospital) will be held tonight at 6:30 o'clock at O'Brien's, San Jose.

More than 200 volunteer campaign workers from San Jose and valley cities and towns are expected to be present, and to report the amounts given by individuals and firms whose members the workers have interviewed.

All workers in the campaign have been accelerating their efforts this week, in order to have good reports to make at the dinner.

"Santa Clara County has a habit of going one hundred and one percent in its campaigns, and we don't expect this one to be any exception," A. R. Bower, chairman of the field department, said.

"We don't say this will be easy, but we do say it can be done."

"We can and will raise $1,000,000 in Santa Clara Valley to provide better hospital care for our citizens."

Last major division of the field department to enter the campaign was the establishments group which kicked off last Monday night. Volunteers in the establishments division will carry the crusade for better hospitalization to 20,000 employees in more than 300 business firms in San Jose.

Business division workers who entered the field three weeks ago are interviewing heads of 2900 businesses.

Valley cities and towns are organizing their own independent campaigns for the hospital. Cupertino, Sunnyvale, Agnew, Mountain View, Berryessa, Burbank, Santa Clara and Saratoga have their campaigns under way.

Members of central committee who have been seeking advance gifts for the campaign, held special meetings Monday and Tuesday in preparation for the report dinner tonight.

"Each chairman has been pressing every member of his committee to get his work completed in time to report it at the dinner June 5," Will B. Weston, chairman of central committee, said.

Large gifts to the campaign announced recently include $45,000 from Food Machinery Corporation and $30,000 from Mrs. Sada Coe Robinson, San Jose. A gift of $25,000 from Barron-Gray Packing Company was announced earlier.

Dr. J. B. Josephson, president of Santa Clara County Medical Society, and chairman of the doctors' division of central committee, reported recently that his division had raised 90 per cent of its $125,000 quota.

"Doctors of this community are solidly behind this campaign," Dr. Josephson said. "We already have contributions from 156 doctors."

No new construction has been added to Community Service Hospital since 1927, and the hospital now is so overcrowded that the situation represents a crisis for the entire valley.

Community Service Hospital is seeking $1,000,000 for a new five-story wing and for an additional story on each of its present wings.

The new construction will contain at least 100 new hospital beds, and the general hospital facilities, such as surgeries, laboratories, diagnosis and treatment rooms and kitchens, which are needed by the entire hospital plant.

NOW AT CUPERTINO STORE

Gregory Parker is now employed at the Cupertino Hardware store.

"Cavalleria Rusticana" will precede the Rev. Lawrence J. Osborne's scripture reading and a prayer by Father Ryan.

Next the a cappella choir will render the anthem, "Beautiful Savior" by Christiansen.

The Rev. Lawrence Osborne, minister of the Campbell Methodist church, will give the sermon and Father Ryan the benediction.

Also included in the services will be two more numbers by the a cappella choir, "To Thee O Lord, Do I Lift Up My Soul," by Lalinikoff, and "The Lord Bless You and Keep You," by Lutkin.

Graduates will not have any trouble remembering the date of their graduation exercises for Friday, the 13th, has been selected.

Three Teachers Selected, Including Football Coach

Principal Laurence Hill announced yesterday that after interviewing thirty-seven candidates he had selected three teachers for next year's high school staff.

Arthur G. Swenson, who has coached lightweight sports at Santa Cruz for the past two years, will be the football coach. Mr. Swenson has had an excellent record of winning teams. He will teach three classes of mathematics and will also coach wrestling and track. Before teaching in Santa Cruz, Swenson was in the service and taught at Santa Barbara.

Mr. M. F. Hughes, present shop teacher, who will teach driver education next year, will be replaced in the shop by Frank D. Meiss, who is at present teaching industrial arts in California Junior High school in Sacramento.

Mrs. Marian W. Weston will join the staff to teach freshman English and arts and crafts. Mrs. Weston has had teaching experience in art and dramatics in private schools.

Miss Barbara Davis, freshman English teacher, is leaving Campbell to teach elsewhere. Coach Herbert Hudson is leaving Campbell to coach next year at Sequoia High school.

Recreation Head Addresses Kiwanis

At Tuesday's Kiwanis Club luncheon Arthur Tindall, newly appointed recreation director for the Campbell area, told club members of the proposed plans for a long-term recreation program that would serve the territory included in the Campbell Union High school district.

He outlined the plan for financial support by the creation of a recreation district which could support the project by a very small tax. He pointed out the fairness of this plan in contrast to solicitation of funds which would put the burden on a few.

Money secured through such a plan would, Tindall said, be used for the purchase of necessary recreation equipment for, at least, three centers in the district, and the salary of the recreation director.

Joseph McKinnon, member of the Board of Supervisors, who was present at the meeting, indicated his interest in the plan and volunteered to look into the legal technicalities involved in forming a recreation district.

Also on the program was a discussion of the school safety program by three Campbell Grammar school students.

Chairman of the day was William Henley.

Dance Plans Nearly Completed

Plans for the community dance to be held in the high school gym on Saturday evening, June 14, are nearing completion. Arthur Tindall, recreation director, reports that Benny Glassman's well-known orchestra has been secured for the occasion.

In addition to dancing, there will be door prizes and entertainment during the intermission.

Proceeds of the dance will be for the benefit of the newly organized recreation program and it is hoped the funds will be sufficient to see the project through the summer months at least.

This method of money raising was selected by the coordinating council in preference to solicitation and donations which would put the burden on only a few.

On the committee arranging the affair are Arthur Tindall, Mrs. Ray Gilpatrick, Mrs. Gene Hodges, Robert Raker, Mrs. Harold Drummond and Mrs. Louise Tordt.

Tickets may be purchased from any of the local merchants.

Student Wins Harvard Honors

Barry Decker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt C. Decker, is the two-time winner of Harvard University honors. On May 19 he received word that he had been awarded a U.S. Naval scholarship to Harvard, and May 27 he was awarded a national scholarship to Harvard as a result of competitive examinations.

Under the naval scholarship, Decker has the opportunity of being commissioned as an ensign upon graduation, provided he takes certain required courses in naval science. He has been active in forensics at Los Gatos Union High school, and in student activities.

The young scholar's mother is now teaching kindergarten at the Campbell Grammar school and his aunt, Mrs. Robert Roll, was a Campbell resident until recently.

Cambrian Hardware Store Is Sold

Frank Coombs and his son, Del, have sold their recently renovated Cambrian Hardware store to Roy B. Lindsay formerly of Berkeley. Lindsay took over on Monday and is enthusiastic over his new venture.

The store, located at the junction of the San Jose-Los Gatos Highway and Union Ave., has twice burned to the ground and twice been rebuilt.

Coombs has purchased a house trailer and he and his family plan on taking off soon for a three months jaunt to see the country.

Moreland Students To See Marionettes

Mrs. Gussie M. Baker, principal of the Moreland school, announced that the local PTA has made arrangements to present a marionette show at the school clubhouse on Friday, June 6.

The entertainment is to be given for the benefit of the school children and is presented by Mr. Walter Scott.

Titles of the shows to be shown are "Jack and The Bean Stalk" and "The Little Red Hen." Both are said to be very clever performances.

The 7th and 8th grades have had their pictures taken for graduation. The annual excursion to Santa Cruz will be held Saturday, June 14. This is a red letter day in the lives of the pupils and everyone is looking forward to it.

Visions of soda pop, ice cream, popcorn, and hot dogs haunt the minds of each 7th and 8th grader. Life isn't complete until a day has been spent at Santa Cruz.

The history test given to all 7th graders throughout the county is expected to be given this week.

Pupils of the Moreland school have prepared themselves well and are expected to get by without too much difficulty.

Campbell Court Notes By Judge Blaine

This time the court notes will barge into the discussion of an overall program of recreation.

What our country districts most need, in the opinion of this long-time observer, are recreational facilities. This means not only in Campbell but in the school districts 'round about.

For instance, of the seven districts in the High School consolidation Campbell has the only tennis courts. There should be tennis courts at least at Cambrian, Union, and Moreland. Since these districts helped to pay our tennis-court bill it would be a fine thing in cooperation if we helped them to pay theirs.

Neither Union nor Moreland have adequate ball-field facilities. But they helped to pay for ours. Though our High School district can hardly give these Grammar School districts financial support, a Coordinated Recreation district could. And the teams developed there would make good competition for ours.

What facilities for recreation can do has been well demonstrated by our lighted tennis courts. The lights were provided by the kind interest and enterprise of the High School PTA. Nothing about what is enjoyed on those courts without tournaments leaks into the news, but all the fun in our tournament last year was only a drop in the ocean compared to the spontaneous fun got on those lighted courts annually.

It wasn't news that the Campbell judge personally played about 400 sets of tennis in 1946, but it was fun just the same. Nothing natural and spontaneous is news, but the natural and spontaneous is nevertheless vital—more vital believe it or not, than the organized. It would be news if the natural and spontaneous became news.

It is news if 50 children out of the 1600 registered in our Grammar School take part in an organized summer recreation project. It should be obvious, though not news, that the other 1550 are doing something mainly spontaneous. It would be really news if there were playgrounds for spontaneous fun in every neighborhood.

So much for the idea that we have more need of facilities than of supervision. And money invested in facilities is relatively permanent, virtually an endowment. But all this is only an opinion, spontaneous!

Light Rainfall Is Fire Danger

Unless vigilance, caution and education are redoubled, California faces the danger of one of the worst forest fire seasons in many decades.

With rainfall in northern and central California far below seasonal averages, many of the forest areas are already tinder dry and ready to spring into destructive conflagration. In view of this a few "do not's" seem to be in order.

Do not, under any circumstances, throw lighted cigars, cigarettes, pipe ashes or matches from an automobile in any rural area.

Do not leave your picnic or camp fire unattended.

Do not fail to put out your fires completely with water and earth when you depart. Pour water on your fire until the last spark is extinguished, then bury with earth as an added precaution.

Do not build a fire in any area where there is dry grass, litter, limbs, windfalls or deadfalls within fifty feet of you. Scrape the ground down to bare earth for a six foot radius before building a fire, and keep your fire down to the bare minimum necessary to cook your food.

Do not throw a match to the ground in field or forest without first breaking it in two with your fingers.

Do not discard a lighted cigar or cigarette in field or forest. Knock ashes off into your hand until they are cold. Kick a hole through the top litter of ground to bare earth with your heel. Grind out your cigar or cigarette with your fingers until every spark is extinguished, then tamp down with earth unmixd with grass or wood slivers.

EMERGENCY FUND

Washington—The only real secret item of government expenditure in this American democracy is the president's special emergency fund. This is a fund given every president—whether Republican or Democrat—and which he can use for anything he wants. He doesn't have to account for it or tell congress what he does with it. He can use it for espionage in a foreign country, for making a gift to a foreign potentate or for buying animals for the zoo.

Last year, President Truman was voted a secret kitty of $2,500,000.

The breakdown of the confidential kitty shows that the largest part went to handle the coal mines. This was an emergency congress could not appropriate for in advance, and instead of asking for a special emergency appropriation Mr. Truman simply took $1,178,000 out of his own fund to pay for operating the mines.

He also used his secret fund to pay the $12,000 salary of his special ambassador to the Vatican, Myron Taylor, and another $70,000 to pay expenses of his special committee to promote universal military training.

Here are other secret items made from the fund regarding which no questions are asked:

Executive office of the president $72,000; study of civil rights and merchant marine, $80,000; commission on higher education, $10,000; expenses of committee observing Bikini tests, $10,000; personal services and expenses of executive office $75,000; president's advisory committee on universal training, $70,000; president's amnesty board, $40,000; scientific research (office of war mobilization and re-conversion), $100,000.

President Truman also allotted $80,000 for the economic mission to Greece headed by Paul Porter and $40,000 for other un-named purposes.

Other items included $6500 to the war department for "aviation facilities in Ecuador"; $48,000 to the labor department for wage fact-finding boards; $25,000 for the food famine committee of the department of agriculture; $50,000 to the justice department for a study of "excess transportation costs of the war department," and $120,000 to Veterans' Administration for decentralization expenses.

The $50,000 to the justice department to investigate its fellow department of war is especially interesting. The war department had paid excessive freight rates to the railroads; so the President paid out some of his own money to the tightly budgeted justice department to study these excessive rates.

BUMBLING AMBASSADOR

If Soviet Premier Stalin really means what he says about wanting to encourage peace between the United States and Russia, he might start by booting Russia's bigoted, blundering Andrei Gromyko into the salt mines of Siberia.

In the 14 years of Soviet-American diplomatic relations, no Russian diplomat in the U.S. has been a worse flop. Some people wonder whether Gromyko has ever smiled at anyone—including his wife. Even some of his Soviet colleagues denounce Gromyko to his face for being so obstinate.

One of those hating him most is Ukrainian Foreign Minister D. Z. Manulsky, who openly asks why Molotov keeps Gromyko around. Andrei Vishinsky, Russia's foreign minister, even refers to Gromyko as a "Molotov stooge" and is equally critical.

Gromyko makes a fetish of being overbearing and a general nuisance. His underlings in the "brave new Soviet society" are scared stiff.

Recently, he issued a flat edict to all Soviet employees at the United Nations barring them from any unofficial social relations with non-Russians. Following this, Soviet girl stenographers caught dating non-Russians were to be shipped home. Finally the girls, who happen to belong to a union, got permission to "date" citizens of "non-hostile" countries.

U. S. diplomats who deal with the Russians say that even tough-hided Foreign Minister Molotov is a prince of graciousness alongside Gromyko. During the last full U. N. general assembly, Molotov held nightly dinners for pro-Soviet diplomats and let them argue back and forth on various policies before reaching a decision.

Now, with Gromyko in charge, even the Soviet satellites don't know what's happening. They refer to Gromyko as the "double-crosser," claim he goes out of the way to prove that they are stooges of the Russians by refusing to discuss Russia's stand on upcoming issues.

So strict is Gromyko that Russian officials at U.N. don't dare

Marine Academy Graduates Tracy

Ens. Charles L. Tracy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Brodie of Rt. 2, Box 475 Walters Ave., and a graduate of Mountain View Union High school, graduated last week from the U. S. Merchant Marine academy, Kings Point, N.Y.

Tracy now holds the rank of Ensign in the Naval Reserve and Maritime Service. He also received a third assistant engineer's license.

Campbell Boy To Fly To New York Baptists Plan Revival Meetings

Erich Strodthoff, who is ten years old, is more than usually anxious for school to end—for on June 15 he will enplane alone for New York City. His plane will be one of the large four-motor ones making non-stop flights from San Francisco to New York.

He will make a three months' visit with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Vivian Parsons, on Long Island and will then motor home with them, taking in the sights as they make a leisurely trip.

Erich is the son of Mrs. Anne Strodthoff of 5 Alice Ave.

WATCH FIRST STEPS

Watch those first steps after you leave the curb, the California State Automobile Association advises. The first few steps are the most dangerous, for that is when three out of four pedestrian accident victims are hit at crossings.

New Mexico was admitted into the Union on January 4, 1912.

The First Baptist church will begin a series of revival meetings Sunday, June 8, at the Boy Scout hall on Third street, north of Campbell avenue.

Rev. Wallace M. Hough of Louisville, Kentucky, will do the preaching and Mrs. Hough will assist with the music. Don Justice will lead the singing. Don is the regular song leader for the youth meeting comprising the Southern Baptist churches of Salinas and Santa Clara Valleys.

Rev. W. C. Ferguson is the pastor. The church is nearly one year old and has had a substantial growth since its organization.

During the regular business session it was suggested that the county agricultural commissioner be kept informed about dead trees so that the new county ordinance relating to rest control could be enforced.

On May 10 the Grange will meet again. After a short business session and program refreshments will be furnished in the banquet room by Mr. and Mrs. Martin S. Walsh.

Signs have been made by Lloyd Selig to place on the Grange lot on South 4th street saying "Dumping Prohibited — Orchard City Grange."

Miss Jean Bocca Is First June Bride At Ceremony In St. Patrick's Church

Miss Jean Bocca became the first of the June brides on Sunday when a double ring ceremony at St. Patrick's church in San Jose united her in marriage with Leroy French of Campbell.

White gladioli furnished an all white decor for the setting of the wedding which was at four o'clock in the afternoon. Miss Ruth Cousins of Campbell sang preceding the rites.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a gown of white organdy and a finger-tip veil with lace crown. She carried a white prayer book with an orchid and bouquet.

Her two sisters, the Misses Anita and Marie Bocca, served as attendants for the bride. Their frocks were also of organdy, one in pale green and the other in pale yellow. Both carried small muffs fashioned of flowers.

The wedding reception was held after the ceremony at Lou's Village in Burbank.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Andries of San Jose and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Morse French of Lathrop avenue in Campbell.

Both of the newlyweds are graduates of Campbell Union High school. After graduation the bride entered one of the first cadet nursing classes and completed her training at Community Service Hospital last March. Her husband has been serving in the Army since his graduation but recently received his discharge.

On their return from a honeymoon in Carmel the young couple will make their home in San Jose and the bridegroom will start a veterinarian's course at San Jose State college.

Mrs. Andries chose a gray suit with fawn colored accessories for her daughter's wedding. With this she wore a corsage of camellias.

The bridegroom's mother was gown in a rose-colored costume. With this she wore white accessories and a corsage of white and blue delphiniums.

HISTORY OF CAMPBELL

INDIAN MOUNDS

The bones of over 6700 birds were gathered during the final leveling of the mound, nearly all of them broken and many of them charred at the ends. About two-thirds of all the birds were ducks of one kind or another. Pelicans came next in number, then cormorants, hawks, eagles, grebes and loons. Most of the birds were used as food, but others were taken for their feathers. Selection was doubtless governed by ease of capture, flavor, ornamental value of the feathers and taboo.

A considerable number of the bones were shaped into needles, awls, whistles and ornamental tubes. Nets and decoys were used in the capture of ducks; nooses, snares and traps for other birds; and the bow and arrow for birds and game. No extinct species were found in the mound by H. Howard of the University of California who made the bird identifications. Of the 50 species examined 33 were water birds, but vultures, owls, quail, crows and condors were also represented.

The composition of the large Ellis Island mound near Richmond was very similar to that at Emeryville. The Indians of this village seem to have had an especial fondness for rocks. They brought fragments of all kinds from several miles back in the hills: shining specimens of mica schist, attractive pieces of blue glaucophane schist, crystallized actinolite, green and red jaspers, and chalcedony nodules. Dark stonish occurred between the top and bottom of the casing.

such as basalt and andesite were also represented. Finally there were quartz crystals and black obsidian, but these must have been obtained from neighboring tribes, for they do not occur in the Berkeley hills. The rocks were used for fireplaces, nut crackers, mortars and other artifacts. Quantities of pebbles are common in the mounds. Perhaps they were carried in the hand to throw at animals or used in slings.

From the frequency of human skeletons in the portion of the mound excavated, it is estimated that there must have been as many as 3000 in the whole. In one portion the bodies would have the knees drawn up to the chin, in another they would lie prone. Skeletons were often found in groups, in one instance fourteen bodies being huddled close together. With children were interred olive shells, rock crystals and other ornaments; with old women, mortars, pestles and bone awls. About the men were placed obsidian blades, pipes and charm stones. Red paint also encrusted their remains, indicating that men were painted before burial.

The mortars, found at all levels, varied in size from 2 to 18 inches in diameter. Practically all had been purposely broken, often into as many as a dozen pieces. Charm stones shaped like tops or plumb bobs were frequent in the top layers; also there were notched bones and sticks with ornaments attached to their ends by means of tar. Flat stones and mortars were used in grinding acorns and seeds, and the grit in the food wore down the teeth until long before old age they were even with the gums.

At Mountain View six-foot skeletons were found, all buried with heads pointing to the west. In 1908 fourteen mounds were counted at Sunnyvale, five at Belmont, five at San Mateo and three on the Guadalupe River near Alviso. Some had already been leveled by cultivation and could be located only by the luxuriant growth of the covering crops. Buckeyes, after being soaked and buried for a time, were used as food by the Indians. Sometimes forgotten, they sprouted and grew. Mounds could often be located by the buckeye clumps. The writer has visited the lower Guadalupe in search of mounds, but only cultivated fields meet the eye to-day, although there is a marble monument north of the Bayshore Highway not far from the Guadalupe bridge indicating the first location of the Santa Clara Mission.

The Golden Gate Park Museum has a collection of artifacts taken from the Richmond mound, the University of California has collections from the Emeryville and several other mounds, and the Stanford Museum a collection from a nearby mound at Mayfield.

During the construction of the Bayshore Highway through the Kenny ranch near Mountain View the graders uncovered an old burial mound containing many skeletons. Beads and mortars accompanied the bones, which were found at a depth of about three feet below the surface. The bones were reinterred along the right-of-way. Kenny stated that in his youth he and other children of the neighborhood often dug about the deposits for the numerous relics to be found in them. He said that the village was still occupied by Indians when his father took over the place, a portion of the old Murphy Spanish grant, 75 years before.

On Roosevelt Avenue in Sunnyvale, a few years ago, a ditch digger came upon a skeleton half a foot beneath the ground surface. He immediately called the Chief of Police, who gathered the bones in a sack and took them to the coroner's office. The coroner, suspecting their origin, turned them over to Paul Walker, a professional archaeologist. Upon examination ashes were found inside the skull; the teeth were ground flat, and the joints showed advanced arthritis. Walker pronounced the skeleton that of an Indian, which might be anywhere from 150 to 3000 years old.

In March, 1946, bulldozers uncovered an Indian burial ground while extending Seventh Street to the south of San Jose near Spartan Stadium. From the number of bones exhumed it was apparent that an extensive Indian village had once been located on the banks of Coyote Creek, a few blocks to the east. The driver of one of the graders reported finding a circle of skeletons in sitting posture about a central figure. Clyde Arbuckle, city historian of San Jose, found another Indian in a sitting posture which, when laid out, measured six feet. Teeth were well worn, but the enamel in good condition.

Anthropologists do not agree concerning the lapse of time necessary for the growth of the mounds. Some think they represent accumulations of as much as 3000 years, others say that a 1000 years would suffice. It has been argued that the sinking of some of the mounds below sea level indicates a long period of time. But it is well known that certain spots on the valley floor have settled two or three feet within a decade or two. Deep well pipes once coming merely to the surface later stood high above the ground level. No fundamental ground movements were involved since the compression (to be continued)

Do You Need a Pressure Cooker?

Many people have the mistaken idea that a pressure cooker is essential for canning fruits. Actually it is neither necessary nor advisable to can fruits in a pressure cooker.

A pressure cooker is a must for canning vegetables or for canning meats, poultry and fish. This is because of the danger of the deadly botulinus poisoning.

If you plan only to can fruits, then invest in a water bath canner instead, or rig one up yourself. A bucket or any deep kettle will do providing it is deep enough for the water to go over the tops of your jars.

Using a pressure cooker to can fruit may result in over-cooked fruit. The higher temperature obtained in the pressure cooker plus pressure itself may tend to make the fruit soft and mushy. And over-cooking fruits at high pressure may destroy some of the vitamins.

FOR EASE IN CANNING:

Canning is simplified if you keep all your supplies in one place. Why not clear out a cupboard or set aside a shelf which can be used for your canning supplies. They'll be handy whenever you want to put up fruit. Maybe you can move little used equipment to make room for storing canning equipment. A small shallow carton can be used for storing all the utensils needed for canning. For instance you could keep together jar lids, jar rings, measuring cup, funnel, jar lifter, paring knife, set of measuring spoons, long-handled spoon, and perhaps several small clean clothes for wiping rims of jars. With everything conveniently located in a minute you're set for canning at a moment's notice.

If you'd like help with your home canning problems, won't you get in touch with the Agricultural Extension Service, 201 Post Office Bldg., San Jose.

The free bulletin "Home Canning" will be mailed to you on request.

Handling Of Sweet Corn

The table quality of sweet corn offered for retail sale is often poor because harvesting, transit, and marketing temperatures are too high. This rapid loss of quality is due to conversion of sugar to starch which is governed by temperature. Retention of quality is best at 32 degrees and corn must be below 50 degrees if it is to remain "good" for more than a few hours.

Investigations by L. L. Morris and H. B. Richardson indicate that growers and shippers can do several things to maintain sweet corn quality. Such improvements include harvesting at optimum quality, harvesting while the corn is cool, cooling the corn below 50 degrees as rapidly as possible, and maintaining low transit temperatures. Pre-cooling for 20 to 30 minutes in water held below 40 degrees is advisable to remove field heat. It is necessary to melt approximately 500 pounds of ice per ton of corn to maintain water bath temperatures below 40 degrees. After precooling, additional cooling may be necessary to lower the corn below 50 degrees. Package ice (5 to 6 pounds per dozen ears) has proved to be an effective method of attaining rapid cooling and low transit temperatures. For long marketing periods (3 days or over) precooling, package icing, and heavy body icing is desirable. For shorter marketing periods, precooling plus body ice in transit or package iced plus top icing may be adequate.

First Certified Cereal Seed

The first production of certified cereal seed has been produced by James Hopson of the Evergreen district. Mr. Hopson planted 13 acres of certified Ventura Oats and will harvest five acres of seed and cut the rest for hay. Ventura variety of oats was developed for its rust resistance, and its excellent quality for horse hay. Two varieties that have proved very adaptable to our local conditions are Kanota and the above mentioned Ventura oats. The possibility of fertilizing grain crops will be tested out this coming fall, and the economics and practicability of this practice will be determined. Certified seed production is a highly specialized business and can become a new source of income for many farmers.

Veterans' News

Because of the limited number and size of Veterans Administration cemeteries, burials in them are restricted to veterans who die in VA's 126 hospitals and homes and whose relatives do not desire burial elsewhere.

Many inquiries regarding burial in VA cemeteries have been received since the war department announced plans to return the bodies of World War II servicemen who died overseas. The bodies will be returned at the request of next of kin.

The war department estimates that about 75 percent of the 250,000 identified bodies of servicemen who died overseas will eventually be returned to this country for burial.

The VA now has only 16 active cemeteries, operated in conjunction with as many hospitals and homes. These cemeteries have space to accommodate about 25,000 more bodies. VA also has eight inactive cemeteries where it is caring for 99,500 graves.

If only a small percentage of veterans who died overseas were to be buried in VA's remaining cemeteries, these cemeteries would quickly be filled. Even then only a few of the requests could be taken care of.

In addition, if burials of overseas war dead or other veterans were permitted in VA cemeteries, VA would not have room in which to inter bodies of those veterans who die in VA hospitals and homes and whose relatives do not desire burial elsewhere.

All cemeteries now under control of the VA were acquired when it was given control of the National Homes for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers or through transfer of former army posts to VA as hospital sites. Although it continues to operate acquired cemeteries, VA has never established a new one.

The return and final burial of bodies of men who died overseas has been delegated by Congress to the war department. Next-of-kin have the choice of: 1. Having bodies buried in permanent American Military cemeteries overseas; 2. having bodies buried in private cemeteries overseas, in the country which was the homeland of the deceased or the homeland of the next-of-kin; 3. having bodies returned to the U.S. and interred in private cemeteries designated by relatives and 4. returning bodies to the U.S. and having them interred in one of the 64 National cemeteries operated and maintained by the war department.

Question: I am going to college under the G.I. Bill, but am dissatisfied with the school and would like to know if I can transfer to another college.

Answer: Yes. Under the regulations of the VA you may change your school, but you must have the approval of VA in advance.

Campbell Seniors Observe Tradition

On Tuesday seniors at Campbell Union High school observed their traditional "sneak" day. On this annual occasion the graduating class takes a day off from their studies for a long session of fun. One hundred and twenty-five seniors left the school at 6 a.m. in four chartered buses. They cooked their own breakfast at the Big Trees and then went to Sycamore Park on the coast for the balance of the day. Luncheon and dinner were eaten out of doors and even the weather cooperated with the good time. Many of the group enjoyed speed boat rides during the day. Faculty members accompanying the group were Laurance Hill, R. E. Noddin, Dean Chamberlin, Mrs. Louise Torat and Mrs. Alfreda Runge. Included in the group of parents who also went were Mesdames J. Benson, G. Liegh, Frank Steindorf, G. Van Arsdale, O. Price, T. Visconte, C. R. Hutchison, William Harold and Mr. Ray Fish.

BROTHER DIES

H. H. Unruh is receiving the condolences of friends since the death of his brother, Earnest Unruh, in King City last Saturday. Final rites were conducted yesterday at 2 p.m. from the Erickson Chapel of the Psalms, followed by interment in Oak Hill Memorial Park.

The new face seen at the Campbell Hardware store is that of Mrs. Bonnie Ardrey. She has replaced Mrs. Virginia Cline.
